

MARK REYES

SR. DIRECTOR OF COMMUNITY RELATIONS AND ADMINISTRATION

Aiming to be the next Rafael Nadal, this left-hander loves to play tennis! Mark Reyes is the Senior Director of Community Relations and Administration at the Urban League of Broward County. Although born in Homestead, Mark calls Tampa home. After obtaining his undergraduate degree in American Studies from Yale University, he moved to New York to begin his career in nonprofit management and leadership. After eight years in the nonprofit sector, Mark went back to Yale University to get an MBA with a focus on Nonprofit Management. Over the course of his almost 20-year career, he has assumed front line and leadership roles with an emphasis on development, administration and program management with the goal of having a well-rounded portfolio of experience.

While tennis dominates Mark's free time now, dance is also one of Mark's loves. As an undergrad, Mark was a dancer in Yale's Hip Hop and Contemporary Dance Group, Rhythmic Blue. Mark continued to dance in NYC as a backup dancer, member of the group AIF with Avon Chandler and member of Richard Rivera's Physical Dance Company from 2003-2004. In grad school, Mark trained in capoeira, a Brazilian art form that incorporates dance, martial arts, and music.
